ABSTRACT

A printing system including an instant message server configured to process data received using instant message protocol, an instant message printer application associated with the instant message server configured to translate print data received in instant message protocol into a printable format, and a printer coupled with the instant message printer application configured to print the translated print data.